Submission and Style Guidelines
Revised December 2013

Submissions

Instructions for Authors
The Nonproliferation Review welcomes unsolicited manuscripts in three categories: articles (theoretical analyses and case studies); reports (discussions of new developments and emerging issues); and viewpoints (policy proposals and critiques and innovative opinion pieces). All manuscripts should follow Nonproliferation Review style guidelines (see below).

The editors will not consider manuscripts under simultaneous submission elsewhere or material that has already been published. All material must be original.

Submissions must contribute new ideas and insights to the nonproliferation field. The Review's editors welcome submissions on any topic related to weapons proliferation, including but not limited to chemical, biological, radiological, nuclear, and conventional weapons. Example topics include: activities and developments in international nonproliferation regimes; social, political, and economic dynamics of specific countries and regions with regard to weapons development and/or proliferation; new information on policies or weapons programs of specific countries; the spread of knowledge, materials, or technologies with potential destructive applications; measures, either existing or proposed, to control proliferation; causes of proliferation or nonproliferation; consequences of proliferation, including its impact on stability and its economic or environmental effects; and relevant activities of non-state actors, such as nongovernmental organizations or terrorists.

Submission Requirements
Send your manuscript as an e-mail attachment (Microsoft Word file) to Editor Stephen Schwartz, sschwartz[at]miis[dot]edu. Every submission must include three required elements:

• Author bio/contact information: Include a short biographical paragraph (up to 125 words per author) that lists the current position, qualifications, and recent publications of the author(s). Also include contact information for all authors: name, mailing address, e-mail address, and phone number. To maintain anonymity for the peer review process, submit this information on an opening page or in a separate document.

• Abstract: Include one paragraph (150–200 words) that summarizes the article’s main points and contributions to the field. The abstract should not repeat verbatim the opening paragraph or other text from the submission. Include the abstract at the top of the submission.

• Manuscript: All submissions must be in Microsoft Word and should adhere to the Review’s style guidelines (see below). Submissions must be double-spaced on US letter–sized pages with standard 1-inch page margins and a 12-point font. The text and all heads should be left-justified. Leave only one space between the period at the end of a sentence and the beginning of the next sentence. Any brief acknowledgements or disclaimers should be placed at the end of the submission. Tables and/or figures must be submitted in separate documents (see guidelines below).

Authors, please take special note: word counts include the endnotes.

Articles should not exceed 10,000 words.
Viewpoints and reports should not exceed 7,500 words.
Book reviews should not exceed 4,000 words.

Book Reviews: complimentary copies
Publishers interested in having their books reviewed in the journal should contact Editor Stephen Schwartz (sschwartz[at]miis[dot]edu) for mailing information regarding where to send complimentary copies or galleys.

Letters to the Editor responding to articles published in the Review are encouraged and welcome; letters (subject to editing) may be selected for publication in the Review’s Correspondence section and online. Please e-mail your letter and contact information to Editor Stephen Schwartz, sschwartz[at]miis[dot]edu.

Review Process

The Nonproliferation Review adheres to a double-blind peer review process. Selected submissions will be evaluated by at least two reviewers with expertise in the subject matter of the manuscript. The editors will make every effort to notify authors of the decision within twelve weeks of receipt of their manuscripts. The Review reserves the right to reject any submission without elucidation. Manuscripts that are accepted on condition of revision may be subject to a second review after revisions are received. Book reviews generally do not fall under the peer review process.

Style Guidelines

Endnotes

Endnotes should include complete source citations. Keep in mind that the goal of an endnote is to allow the curious reader to easily locate the referenced material; to that end, all notes should include the author, title, publication, date, and page number (if possible). Below are some examples.

Endnotes must be created using Microsoft Word’s automated insertion feature and numbered using Arabic numerals. Submissions with manually inserted endnotes will be returned to the author(s) for revision.

The Review does NOT use “op. cit.” or “idem.” If an endnote citation is identical to its predecessor, use “ibid.” The second time a source is cited (nonsequentially) in the endnote section, a shortened note including author last name, title, and page number is sufficient (e.g., Kotkin, Steeltown, p. 209). If an acronym has been spelled out in the text of the article, it is unnecessary to spell it out again in the endnotes. The Review generally follows the sixteenth edition of the Chicago Manual of Style.

The Review strongly prefers all sources to be named. In the rare instance that anonymity must be granted, the author should be prepared to share the name of the source with the editor and give a description of the source’s qualifications for print. In the absence of a name, authors should identify their source based on their expertise or job qualifications relevant to the article and include the date and city of interview(s).

Publication series (non-journal)

Resolutions
UN Security Council Resolution 687, S/Res/687, April 3, 1991. [Include the issuing body and resolution number and the date of adoption (rather than the document issue date).]

Speeches

Testimony or hearings

Treaties
To cite treaties in endnotes, give the full treaty name, the date it entered into force, and section and paragraph numbers if necessary: Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons, March 5, 1970, Article IX, para. 2.

Unnamed sources
Decontamination and radiation expert at the Department of Energy and EPA (name withheld by request), personal interview with author, Washington, DC, July 13, 2005.

Web citations, URLs
For web-only items, provide author, title, date, and as full or complete a URL address as is likely to remain stable over time; do not include URL information whose content changes, as in the locator for the current edition of a newspaper. Include the URL in <angle brackets>.

Grammar and Punctuation

Commas. Use the serial comma: place a comma after the final word in a series before "and," "nor," and "or." Example: I like oranges, apples, and grapefruits. Commas and final punctuation should be placed inside quotation marks. As per the Chicago Manual of Style, “The title of a work that ends in a question mark or exclamation point should now be followed by a comma if the grammar of the sentence would normally call for one or, in source citations or in an index, if a comma would normally follow the title.”

Centuries. Spell out—twenty-first century.

Ellipses. Follow the “three-or-four-dot method” as described in the Chicago Manual of Style. Use three dots ... when material has been omitted from the middle of a sentence in a quote. When material has been deleted after a full sentence that does not end the quotation, be sure to use four dots. ... The first dot is the period ending the sentence. Insert a space before and after the ellipses.

Em dashes. Do not put a space on either side of an em dash (Mac: shift + option+ hyphen). Thus, if you use an em dash—and we do not discourage it—please follow the usage in this sentence.

Italics. Use for books, radio and television show names, vessel names (USS Cole), and for uncommon foreign words. Use sparingly for emphasis. Missile names (e.g., Agni) are not italicized.

Periods. Unnecessary in acronyms and abbreviations: PhD, US (as an adjective), DC, IAEA.

Quotations. Authors should identify the origin of all quoted material in a numbered endnote. Material reproduced from other sources must be credited. Do not alter or edit quotations.

Quotation marks and apostrophes. Use “smart,” not straight, quotation marks and apostrophes. Do not use an apostrophe before the "s" in 1950s, 1980s, etc. For possessives ending in s, use two s’s, (John Gaddis’s biography of George Kennan is exceptional.)

Numbers
In general, for non-measurements/nontechnical contexts, spell out numbers from zero through ninety-nine and use numerals for 100+; use numerals for all measurements (e.g., twelve experts, 12 kilograms). This applies also to ordinal numbers. Exceptions include very large whole numbers in nontechnical contexts, which may be spelled out.

Currency should be expressed in numerals ($8 billion).

Elements on first reference: polonium-210; on second reference abbreviated: Po-210. (Abbreviate only with isotope number; spell out otherwise, i.e., 20 kilograms of plutonium.)

Fractions less than one should be spelled out (one-half, three-eighths).

Percentages always use numerals and never the percentage symbol: 6 percent.

Measurements should use numerals: The 5-kiloton warhead flew 1,250 kilometers. Spell out units of measurement on first use and abbreviate on subsequent uses: The bomblet weighed 70 kilograms (kg), but the casing weighed only 5 kg.

Capitalization
In general, use a minimum of capitalization. Capitalize "Cold War" but not seasons or centuries (twenty-first century). Titles of individuals are not capitalized unless they are used before a person’s name. Example: Secretary of State Warren Christopher said that the United States would comply with the resolution, and Boris Yeltsin, the Russian president, said his country would also comply.

Capitalize national legislatures, but not their adjectival forms: Congress, congressional.

Use lower case for government (i.e., Ukrainian government) and administration (i.e., Clinton administration).

Foreign phrases
Italicize uncommon foreign phrases. If it is necessary to translate parenthetically (as opposed to contextually), follow this example: De Gaulle believed in a strategy of dissuasion du faible au fort (weak-to-strong deterrence).

For languages that use a non-Latin script (e.g., Chinese, Hebrew), use the foreign characters when possible, transliteration when not. This applies also to endnotes.
Long quotations/excerpts
Set off and indent any quotation that is longer than five typed lines. Do not italicize the quote. Shorter quotations remain within the paragraph in which they appear.

Proper names/transliteration
Standardize transliteration when possible (Hussein instead of Hussayn); when spelling is in question, the predominate style used in the New York Times is preferred. For Korean names, use initial capitals without a hyphen (Kim Jong Il). For Chinese, Japanese, and Korean names, the first name listed is the family name (for Kim Jong Il, use Kim). Exception: The personal preference of the person whose name it is. For Spanish names, use the first of the two last names on second and subsequent references (for Carlos Pastora de Fiello, use Pastora).

General usage

Abbreviations
US, UK, EU, and UN are to be used as adjectives only, never as nouns (use United States, United Kingdom, European Union, or United Nations as nouns): “The UN representative traveled to the United States.”

Dates
Use month, day, year format: “December 4, 1992.” When referring to September 11, 2001, use the full date on first mention; “9/11” is acceptable thereafter.

Titles
Spell out fully and capitalize before names: Ambassador Gary Locke, Senator Lugar; lowercase when not preceding a proper name: Hillary Clinton, the secretary of state. Give state and party affiliation for US politicians: Senator Dick Durbin (Democrat of Illinois).

Acronyms/abbreviations
Spell out the first reference to any acronym or abbreviation, followed by the acronym or abbreviation in parentheses if it is referred to again in the article. Keep use to a minimum to avoid “alphabet soup.” Be mindful of possessives and spell out to avoid confusion. For plurals, add s, not apostrophe s (ABWRs, FBRs.)

Frequently used examples:
advanced boiling water reactor (ABWR)
boiling water reactor (BWR) confidence-building measures (CBMs)
Department of Defense (DOD) electromagnetic isotope separation (EMIS)

Tables and Figures
Authors are responsible for obtaining written permission to reprint previously published tables or figures. All tables and figures should have suggested titles. Tables and figures should be created in Microsoft Word or Excel without shading or special formatting. Tables must have references in the text in chronological order and should be referred to as “Tables” (Table 1, Table 2, etc.). Any graphical elements, such as graphs, pictures, illustrations, and photos, must be referred to in the text as “Figures” in chronological order.

All tables and figures should be submitted in separate files (not embedded in the text) labeled with the name of the element (Table 1, Table 2 or Figure 1, Figure 2). Endnotes for tables and figures should be attached to the table or figure in its own file. These endnotes should not be commingled with those of the body of the article.
